THE
OF SALISBURY.

THIS See has undergone many alterations from the time it was first established, to its final settlement in Salisbury. Its first seat was at Sherborn in Dorsetshire, and the diocese then had episcopal jurisdiction over all those counties which now constitute the dioceses of Salisbury, Bristol, Wells, and Exeter; but Wells and Exeter were dismembered from it, and erected into two distinct bishoprics in 905, and a few years afterwards another See was formed out of the remaining jurisdiction of Sherborn, and seated at Wilton in Wiltshire. But this last See, after having had eleven Bishops of its own, was once more united to Sherborn; and soon after the seat of the See was removed to Old Sarum, which had a Dean and Canons from the time of Henry I. Herman, the then Bishop, began to build a Cathedral church there, which was finished by St. Osmund. Bishop Richard Poore brought the seat of the See from the hill of Old Sarum to Salisbury, or New Sarum, where it has continued ever since. He first began the Cathedral Church here, in the year 1220, which was finished in 1258, by Bishop Bridport, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary. It was consecrated on the 30th of September, in the presence of King Henry III. the Archbishop of Canterbury, and a great number of the nobility and prelates; and according to an account then delivered to the King, it had cost 40,000 marks, a sum far less than might have been supposed, even allowing for the difference of the value of money.

In ancient times the Bishops of Salisbury were Precentors to the Archbishop of Canterbury; and King Edward IV. annexed the Chancellorship of the the Garter to the Bishops of this see ; but, in the new statute made by King Henry VIII. this office was left solely at the King's disposal, or to a clergyman or layman. Since Bishop Ward's time, however, it has continued, without interruption, to be conferred on the Bishops of Salisbury.

This See hath yielded to the church of Rome one Saint and two Cardinals, and to the English nation one Lord Chief Justice, three Lord Chancellors, two Lord Treasurers, two Masters of the Rolls, two Chancellors to the University of Oxford, and one to the University of Cambridge.

This diocese contains all Wiltshire, except two parishes ; all Berkshire, except one parish, and part of another : it hath likewise several parishes in Dorsetshire, (in the diocese of Bristol) its own peculiars ; making in all about 544 parishes, of which 109 are impropriations. It has three Archdeacons, viz. of Salisbury, Wiltshire, and Berkshire, and is valued in the King's books at 1367l. 11s. 8d. and computed to be worth, annually, 3500l. The clergy's tenths amount to 901l. 8s.

To this Cathedral belong a Bishop, a Dean, a Precentor, a Chancellor, three Archdeacons, a Sub-Dean, a Sub-Chanter, forty-five Prebendaries, six of which, being residentiary, are stiled Canons: four Vicars or Petty Canons, six singing Men, eight Choristers, an Organist, and other officers.

SALISBURY.

THE City of New Sarum, or Salisbury, began to be built in the year 1095. In 1227, King Henry III. in the eleventh year of his reign, granted a Charter to the Bishop and Citizens of New Sarum, to incorporate the City, in which year the first Mayor, Nicholas de Brookeby, was elected; the office, however, remained vacant till the year 1278, when a new Charter was granted by King Edward I. in the sixth year of his reign; from which period the following regular succession of Mayors took place:
